Research has shown that results of course evaluations often suffer from implicit bias: non-conscious hypotheses/stereotypes, often about an individual's competence. Implicit bias disproportionately affects certain individuals, especially women, people of color, and other under-represented groups. Certain circumstances can exacerbate implicit bias in responding to surveys, including lack of information, stress, and time pressure. You can help to combat implicit bias by understanding it exists, giving yourself appropriate time to complete the evaluation, and being mindful in your responses.

 1 - Acknowledgment:

I have read and understand the above statement.

Your feedback is important to us, and is used for continuous evaluation and improvement of courses and curriculum. Please take the time to fill this out as completely and thoughtfully as possible. It takes about 10 minutes to complete. Results of this evaluation are used for continuous course and program improvement and for annual and tenure/promotion reviews of instructors.

Please place a checkmark in the box that best matches your opinion. The scale values range between "strongly disagree" to "strongly agree." NA means "not applicable." If you have specific comments not otherwise addressed, please make them in the comment box provided at the end of the evaluation.
